Pen Register

Wiretap

CALEA

Nextel

The Problem

Technical investigators often wish to, but are unable to utilize telephone surveillance technology to build their cases and apprehend criminals. This is due to lack of funds for a major equipment purchase, or the inability to wait through the bidding and approval process because the need is immediate. Many departments want to run pen registers and wiretaps, but cannot justify the expenditure for equipment they use only occasionally. This lack of surveillance resources can detrimentally affect the investigative process and it's outcome.

The Solution

Lease your telephone surveillance equipment from XLence Technologies! XLence will design a specialized leasing program for you, with options to fit your specific intercept application - pen register, wiretap, CALEA or Nextel Push To Talk.
